Come Together

Stay apart, but come together,
The essential workers on the line,
Constantly battling a seemingly endless fight, They're fighting for me, for you, for everyone Doing what they do every day, but now it's different Now we need them, now we appreciate them,
Stay apart, but come together.

Stay apart, but come together,
Captain Tom Moore at 99 years old, still helping the nation,
But this time in a different kind of war,
A war where you can bring hope and light to people lives by walking round your garden,
A war where £32 million for the NHS saves our loved ones lives,
Stay apart, but come together.

Stay apart, but come together,
Millions of people across the country put their lives at risk every day, Nurses, Doctors, Teachers, Delivery drivers and so many more,
And while everything is changing, they're always there,
As they go about their daily jobs their invisible capes will always fly behind them,
Stay apart, but come together.

Stay apart, but come together,
Now in these unusual times, we need to become the heroes,
We need to step up and work together doing whatever we can to support those that support us,
We need to clap for all we're worth and show our admiration,
But no matter what happens next, we need to:
Stay apart, but come together.

Write to Unite Poem on COVID – 19

Incredible True Superheroes

The entire globe is chained by a pandemic, Everyone has been affected and not just the academic.
The kind-hearted beings have been tangled,
Perceptions of who manipulates this devil have been wrangled.

Perhaps now is not the appropriate time to moan,
Rather cherish this uncertain phase of life with a scone.
Be grateful for every moment you spend with your family,
Look upon and pray for those who are battling this tragedy.

Some are keen to help and stood on the pedestal,
Who made remarkable efforts and are inevitably impeccable.
A kind gesture towards the community and being optimistic,
Reflect on their courageous deeds and think realistic.

The true angels put in their valiance from the heart's core,
An exceptionally proud example would be Captain Tom Moore.
The trauma, intimidation, burden, sorrow and the immense stress,
Was taken down and made to be vanished by the ferocious NHS.

Cheerfully striving at each pace in his garden to accomplish his endeavors,
The war veteran seamlessly contributes to the frontline heroic warriors.
Celebrating the proud achievements of these true superheroes as we unite,
We are grateful to them for being our nation's guiding light.

Year 8 Winner: Sofiyah Dem

The news circles in my head
The anger and disappointment swirling around me
I can't breathe
My heart beat won't settle Every pair of tired eyes waiting for the image for the image of crime death the old book I have read millions of times by now is wrinkled
and words are faded
I can't go outside to play
I can feel my heart beating every time
something bad happens like the stock rising up and down like the heartbeat of a patient waiting for the doctor i can feel the pain that the world is facing it feels like its pulse is in my hands open wide world
that used to be full of people now nothing
but a mere ghost town waiting to swallow you up
you know it
you have it
you feel the pain of who you are until you fall into the jaws of the people who recovered
and died
you don't know who is next but it may be you watch out for the coronavirus
doctors and nurses
are waiting to see how to stop the jaws of the covid-19.

Year 7 Winner: Sophie Lynch

The Unseen Heroes

When Covid-19 struck the world people started to hurl some even thought it was the end
so started to misspend
then out of nowhere came our heroes
that soon became our superheroes.

To stop the virus
that was quickly spreading
doctors and nurses
shopkeepers and bus drivers
the old and the young all joined together

To fight the virus
and save the future.
